

Photography contest on water conservation open

Photographers interested in water conservation issues can enter a contest.

Australia's savewater! awards are calling for amateur and professional photographers worldwide to share their photos about the importance of water and conserving it for the future.

Three awards will be presented; junior student (up to 12 years old), senior student (13 to 17 years old) and open.

Prizes include digital cameras and iPods, with selected images to be used in international water conservation campaigns.

The deadline for entries is July 20.

For more information, click here: <http://www.savewater.com.au/programs-and-events/savewater-awards/2012-categories>

<http://www.savewater.com.au/programs-and-events/savewater-awards/2012-categories>